

Serve Receive Structures:

The following Serve Receive Patterns, utilize different strengths for all teams to know and use throughout the season. Depending on age groups & abilities, a coach will need to assess the team's best pattern to achieve the most success. When a team is educated on the different patterns, it helps them adjust to different servers and side out quicker.

- B. 4 person serve receive. This pattern calls for majority of the players to be involved in passing. If a team utilizes 4 people, it's either because they need more help or it allows for something different to change the flow of their serve receive.
- Watch for overlapping! All players must remain in rotation setting while shifting patterns. (Once the ball is contacted during serve the setter can move)
 - Pattern repeats, as far as short & deep responsibilities in each serve receive.

Picture on the left is their rotation pattern. Picture directly next to it is the serve receive pattern in that rotation.
